Money Skills for Teens

An interactive, 2-week workshop designed specifically to help teens develop strong money management skills.

49% of teens are 'eager' to learn more about money management. Only 14% had taken a class on a financial literacy topic.

-According to the CalCPA Institute

Build a solid foundation for your teen and help them prepare for long-term financial success and a brighter future!

Given the significant spending power of today's teenagers and their future earning potential, it is imperative to develop strong money management skills early in life. This interactive workshop teaches students how and why money is used, and provides a roadmap for starting a sound financial plan.

Topics include:

- How to identify and prioritize money management goals
- Developing a budget that can help maximize your money
- Investment primer and how your money can work for you
- Understanding credit and the cost/risk of using credit, including college loans
- How to protect assets once they begin to accumulate.

The workshop also provides segments on career building and the key life skills needed for the next generation of workers. Students are encouraged to bring their laptops to class. Internet access is required to access course materials outside of the classroom.

The course will conclude with a tour of the UCLA campus.

What Our Students Say:

"This course is absolutely amazing and has helped me understand the importance of personal finance and guided me to manage my money and future."
