Experience UCLA. Learn about research. July 22–27, 2018

The UCLA Summer Research Institute is looking for current 9th graders (entering 10th in the Fall), to participate in a FREE, week-long residential program at UCLA. This is an intensive, academic program with a focus on research and writing. We are looking for students with a 3.5 GPA and above.

Discover your potential.

- Get introduced to the purpose of research
- Be exposed to core concepts in scientific research
- Participate in an intensive, week-long writing course
- Discover various types of research and its importance to solving social justice issues
- Learn how to effectively apply and prepare yourself for college
- Tour UCLA's campus as you stay here and experience college life

The UCLA Summer Research Institute will expose you to the importance of research in everyday life including technology and social media. The program will place a particular focus on culturally and socially responsive research that examines and addresses social problems, challenges and issues within our communities.
