The Early Entrance Program at Cal State LA is the only program of its kind in the nation that matriculates qualified students as young as 11 years of age as full-time college students, enabling students to skip their remaining years of secondary school and graduate with their baccalaureate degrees within four to five years.

The EEP provides a supportive and substantive community of students, faculty, staff, and administrators, and has successfully graduated gifted students for 36 years. EEP alumni, many of whom are involved in mentorship activities with current students, are practitioners across a broad range of sectors and fields, including medicine, law, government, and education.

"The EEP's primary purpose is not to accelerate the gifted but to promote human flourishing: it gave me a happy adolescence and has made me a better man."

- BRIAN KING, PH. D. (EEP ALUMNUS, CLASS OF 2001)
